Newsletter n°6 - 12/2018

Dear Reader,

The PEACE_Alps conference in Bolzano, Italy on 11. October 2018 was a grand finale for the project which is going to close at the end of the year. In Castle Marecchio, the policy recommendations developed by the project team, consisting of 11 engaged alpine organizations, were widely discussed within three roundtables, and also acknowledged by the European Commission whose representative, Ms Elena Visnar Malinovska, provided a video message from Brussels to the audience at Bolzano. Please read more about the conference in the article below and in the conference proceedings provided on the website.

The PEACE_Alps results are assembled in an interactive online tool which is available on the PEACE_Alps website in English and in all partner languages. It introduces and comments all policy recommendations and tells about success stories in Alpine Space with numerous pictures, videos and story telling flipcharts. The handbook can be viewed online under the title: "Pooling Energy Action Plans

PEACE Alps conference in Bolzano addresses centralized energy solutions

The PEACE_Alps International Conference on 11 October 2018 in Castle Mareccio, Bolzano started with excellent presentations and fruitful discussions into the morning session. The focus was on policy recommendations which were elaborated within the project during the last three years. A video message by Ms Elena Visnar Malinovska of the Unit Adaptation to Climate Change at the European Commission in Brussels offered additional valuable input.
